It's a new week, with new challenges, and, of course, new happenings, at NHS

by Chris Flohr

On Monday the whole school was ecstatic about the football victory. The players hard work, which often goes unnoticed, paid off Friday night and the next week in school. Every player walked tall and proud, practically strutting down the halls. It was great.

The student body was buzzing and even the teachers seemed more upbeat than usual. Not only had the football team won, but all of the other teams seemed to be winning. The field hockey team won this week, the boys' soccer team was on top of its division; both cross-country teams were doing well, as expected, and the J.V. football team came away with a victory on Monday night. Hopefully, these triumphs will inject a bit of needed pride in Northern High School for both students and faculty. Congratulations to every team and athlete on their work, effort, and hard-earned wins.

One area of school which is just as exciting and interesting as last year is the cafeteria. Meal time gives students a bit of freedom to let out their frustrations and joys from the first half of the school day. Often, in a movie or on television, the school cafeteria is depicted as out of control and a battleground for frequent food riots. Those depictions are almost true to form at NHS. The uproarious acts are always just for fun, never intending to hurt anyone. Occasionally, a tray drops or a plate falls and the usual, rude clapping and laughing ensues, but other than embarrassment, this is harmless. It just helps to keep things from getting too serious.

As everything in school, the cafeteria is prone to grievances. Some students complain about the food, others complain about the prices, and others just complain for the sake of complaining. Yes, the prices did go up this year. For example, a student buying one meal would pay approximately $27 a month, compared to the $22 per month last year. Also, the prices of the "luxury items" such as ice cream bars, potato chips, and extra milk, have risen.

The food complaints stem mostly from the portions given. We understand that not everyone can get all that they want, but the portions seem to be the same or even smaller than last year for an increase in price. Also, most of the students at NHS are athletes and athletes need to be nutritionally satisfied to compete favorably in their respective sports. For those who are just plain hungry, dinner must seem a world away after lunch.

A few suggestions that have been made include: offer fruit at a separate price for nutritional purposes or another idea would be to offer a larger meal for an additional but reasonable fee.

On another note, each class at NHS elected their own class officers this week. For some students this is a big joke, for others, those who want to be elected, it's very important. The usual joke nominees appeared, but, in the end, the most deserving students were elected. The class officers for the 1990-91 school year are as follows:

Freshman Class
President-Alex Petroff
Vice President-Lisa Garrett
Secretary - Jessica Koeley
Treasurer-Becki Myers

The sophomore class has yet to hold its elections.

Junior Class
President-Bryan Baxter
Vice President-Dave Habowski
Secretary/Treasurer-Angie Bair

Senior class
President-Jill Evans
1st Vice Presidents-Ben Kohr
2nd Vice President-Brian Heinlein
Secretary/Treasurer-Leti Malkowicz

Now that the weekend is practically upon us, congratulations to those students who made it through the week. Yes, it was tough week for all of us. Good luck trying to make it for another eight months. Come on out to the football game Friday to ease your scholastic tensions.

Burning of Chambersburg

The Burning of Chambersburg, which relieves the destruction of the only town north of the Mason-Dixon line to be burned by Confederate troops during Civil War, will air on Tuesday, September 25 at 11 p.m. on WITF-TV33.

The WITF-produced documentary relives the destruction, emotion, and historical pride experienced by the residents of this south central Pennsylvania Community. The program is narrated by leading Civil War figure and newspaper publisher, Chambersburg resident Alexander K. McClure (played by Dan Jacobs, founder and artistic director of Open Stage of Harrisburg).

Lady Polar Bears On Target

by John Middlekauff

Northern's field hockey team faced a big obstacle this past week, battling potential tough opponents from their division in Mid-Penn. They indeed almost climbed a big mountain. Almost, but not quite! The Lady Polar Bears stopped Shippensburg 2-0, but had to settle for a 1-1 tie against rival Camp Hill.

In the contest at Shippensburg last Tuesday (9-11), you could chalk this one up to the defense. Although Northern's Kim Reichert was not pleased with the lack of aggressiveness, and just standing around play of her team in the first half, she certainly had plenty to smile about during the second half. It was a different game. Northern's defense did a job!

Besides getting very strong performances from Halfback Heather Mattern, Links Beth Graham and Jaimie Rudisill, the Lady Bears got superb play from Senior Fullback Traci Sherman and Sophomore Halfback Rachel Romberger. Providing the glue for this group was the ever-present Gretchen Klaus. Together these six young ladies threw a protective blanket around Goalie Stacee Trapp, allowing her to record her first shut-out of the season.

Northern's offense wasn't that bad at all! At worst they weren't, perhaps, as consistent as they could have been. Plus they had good opportunities, but just couldn't finish off the ladys. But against the Lady Greyhounds they did get two goals and, with a strong defense, made them stand up. The Lady Bears scoring came one in each half. In the first half senior Beth Strayer converted a nice pass from Jaimie Rudisill to bang home Northern's first goal. Beth was proven to be very adept in front of the opponent's goal in notching her third goal of the season. She and Cherie Phipps (4 goals) anchor a forward line that, as indicated before, may lack some experience but have more than enough talent to get the job done.

Northern's second goal is a bit of a puzzle. Here's how it went. First of all, birthday girl Rudisill fired a shot toward the Ship goal. It was (a) tipped in by an unkown Northern player, (b) Tipped accidently by the defense, or (c) knocked in by one else? It was ruled a score by the game officials, and so goes the books as Jaimie's first goal of the season.

Against Camp Hill last Thursday (9-13) it was pretty much the same kind of story with just some very subtle differences. The Lady Lions are tough! They have had a very solid program for a number of years. And to put it bluntly, they haven't treated Northern very well (Score-wise)!

Beth Graham (43) lounges for the ball as Gretchen Klaus gets ready for a play during last week's game against Camp Hill.

So it was no surprise that the Lady Bears started the game at a very slow tempo, really not into it for the first ten minutes. After that point, Northern really got it together. Playing a very strong determined brand of field hockey, the Lady Bears dominated the game until midway through the second half. Once again the Northern defense played a very strong game. The first tally of the game came off the stick of Senior Link Jaimie Rudisill out of a corner situation.

In the second half of play, Northern continued to dominate play until midway through this final period. The game was played in very warm weather, and it is possible that the girls were just running out of steam. Still the Polar Bear Defense maintained its poise, but saw the Lady Lions score a "silly" goal that just managed to elude Northern sticks. In the overtime period, Camp Hill was able to dominate, and while gettign more shots than the Lady Bears, were not able to score a goal.

Once again Sophomore Back Rachel Romberger played a very strong game for the Polar Bears in helping to lead to defensive effort. But this contest took its toll on the Lady Polar Bears. Senior Wing Ursula Reed is out for about a week with a bad ankle injury, and both Gretchen Klaus (back) and Beth Grantham (muscle pull) may see limited action in coming games.

If this past week was an obstacle to get by, then this week will be a pip! Tuesday (9-18) the girls will head over the mountain to take on an always tough West Perry team. Thursday (9-20), they will return home to tackle pre-season favorite Big Spring. Friday (9-21), the Lady Bears will go out of their division to host a tough neighboring Mechanicsburg Wildcat team. So they do have their work cut out for them!

Bears Come From Behind Defeat Big Spring 5-3

by Steve Lusk

In a week that saw the Northern varsity soccer team add two more victories to their season record, the Thursday (9/13) game against Big Springs proved that the Bears have the ability to come from behind.

The ever improving Bulldogs were playing at home, and had the Bears staring at a 3-2 deficit on the scoreboard. However, the Northern eleven not only kept their composure, they kept the heart on Big Springs. Three second half goals later, Northern boarded the team bus for the trip home with a 5-3 victory safe in hand.

With Big Springs fielding a senior dominated line-up, the Bears got off twenty-nine shots on goal, while the Bulldogs managed nine. Coach Ker Swinney reported that "our team controlled the game, and played well overall, with Big Springs really packing their defense. We showed that we could come from behind to win."

Northern goals were scored by Mario Ceo (2), Kyle Hess (2) and Brian Brenizer. Assists were credited to Andy Spicher (2), Joel Yohn, and Tom Sarup.

In the Tuesday afternoon (9/11) away game at West Perry, the Northern defense played a standout game, and the offense responded to a wake up call in the second period to tame the Mustangs.

After a scoreless first period, Andy Spicher, Brett Ginter, Mario Ceo, and Tom Sarup all netted second period scores to stake the Bears squad to a 4-0 half-time lead. Assists were earned by Tony Pizzopola and Ceo. It was up to the defense to hold the home team in check, for the second period saw the beginning and end of Northern's scoring. The final tally was Bears 4, Mustangs 1.

To this stage of the season Northern is atop Mid Penn Division III as co-leader. They are currently sharing the top spot with arch rivals from Shiremanstown, the Trinity Shamrocks. However, by the time this article is printed this deadlock will have been broken, as the two teams meet Tuesday, Sept. 18th at Bosstic field.

The Bears have outscored opponents 25-12 so far this sesson, and have Mike Walton, Eric Sanderson, Jason Gerber, Drew Siverling, Steve Miller, and Jason Siiffler spearheading a very good defense. Discounting a 5 goal explosion by Division I Mechanicsburg, the defense is holding the opposition to a 1.4 goals per game average.

Kyle Hess (8 goals) and Mario Ceo (6 goals) are leading the scoring parade for an offense that has displayed many weapons as exemplified with nine different players contributing to the scoring. The depth of talent is further evidenced by a full slate of eleven different teammates earning assists. Andy Spicher is the current leader in this category with 4. Foes can ill afford to concentrate their efforts on any one portion, or player, of this Northern squad, for the '90 Bears can come at them from anywhere.

They will need every bit of this balance as they continue the quest for the Division crown.

JV Football Team Wins Again

by Steve Lusk

The Northern Junior Varsity football team has posted their second consecutive victory. After beginning the season with 1 12-8 decision over Big Springs in an away game, the Bears totally dominated Hershey in their first home game, earning a 19-0 shutout.

The defensive play has been aggressive and stingy on yardage in both contests, with excellent efforts being turned in by Coley Kreitzer, Tim Kloss, Colby Miller, Joel Cook and others. Offensively, a strong ground attack and some timely passing by starting QB Fred Marlowe have put points on the board.

In the Hershey game the starting offensive line, composed of Cook, tight end, John Hair, tackle, Wally Dewall, guard, Jared Wenger, center, Jared Janney, guard, and Kreitzer, tackle, controlled the line of scrimmage to allow the running game to gain large chunks of real estate.

Ryan Maclay consistently powered his way thru the middle of the Trojan defense for big gainers. He opened the scoring in this game with a blast up the center. In the third quarter the Bears wasted little time capitalizing on a Jerry Diggs interception. Andy Lusk took a pitch from Marlowe, followed some great blocking around the left end and scampered past the Hershey defense for a 37 yard score. Mike Clouser closed out the scoring on a counter reverse around the right end, outrunning the Trojan secondary on about a 50 yard touchdown run. The placement kick by Janney made the final score 19-0.

NOT JUST PEANUTS

About 1910, vending machines were made to sell gumballs or peanuts. The "silent salesman" became a popular, money-making device for stores and saloons. Hundreds of different models were made and patented. The Columbian Vending Company of Columbus, Ohio, made many of the early penny vending machines. The bases were made of painted cast iron and the tops were clear glass globes that displayed the tempting peanuts. The globe had a lid that was padlocked in place, and the coin section of the machine also was locked.

Some vending machines had added features such as a magnetic "thief detector" which rejected bad coins. Collectible vending machines by Columbus were made until the 1940s. Many are identified with patent dates and a company name.

Don't Can That Can

Half of the nation's aluminum cans are made from recycled aluminum. So a beverage can you drink from today may be a beverage can you drank from before!

It's true-and it's good. Making a can from recycled aluminum uses just a fraction of the energy used to make one from virgin aluminum ore. That means the earth's resources can last longer.

And you can recycle aluminum cans easily.

- Just empty and rinse.
- Flatten for storage.
- Place in curbside container (if available), or
- Take them to a recycling center, or look for curbside collection (if available).

The Solid Waste Authority has a list of aluminum recyclers you can get by calling 845-1066. You can recycle.
